

GRAND CENTRAL MARKET CONTINUES THE WAVE OF OPENINGS WITH THE ARRIVAL OF SPECIALTY COFFEE INNOVATORS G&B COFFEE

Sidewalk Coffeebar Experience Comes To LA's Iconic Open-Air Market

(LOS ANGELES, CA - May 31, 2013) Kyle Glanville and Charles Babinski, collectively G&B Coffee, bring LA's hottest new coffeebar concept to Grand Central Market beginning today. The debut of G&B Coffee is part of the unprecedented year-long celebration of new restaurant openings every month at the iconic food arcade, which is the oldest food hall in the city.

G&B Coffee arrives at Grand Central Market having won accolades and a dedicated following from its recently completed seven-month pop-up coffeebar within SQIRL Cafe in Silver Lake. Stars of specialty coffee, Kyle and Charles have worked at some of the world's preeminent coffee companies, won barista championships, and taught and lectured around the world.

G&B serves coffees selected from the world's top roasters and serves them with care and efficiency in a relaxed, bustling sidewalk setting.

"We are excited that we can adopt a version of a European model -- a casual coffee place where you stand at the bar, toss your money down, get a delicious beverage, linger with it a moment and keep going," said Kyle Glanville. "The 30-foot bar on the Hill Street side of the market gives us enough room to have a lot of people hanging out at the bar and has a little bit of a feeling of a classic Italian espresso bar."

Along with the rotating single origin coffees, Red Blossom teas and traditional espresso drinks, G&B serves cappuccinos made with housemade almond milk, cold sparkling white tea and a small selection of coffee and tea infused milkshakes.

The Grand Central Market is in the midst of adding a wide array of new vendors with new flavors, cuisines and tastes throughout the marketplace. In April, "Sticky Rice" began serving its seasonal, market-driven menu of authentic Thai food. Valerie at Grand Central Market, the bakery and coffee shop from Valerie Confections, also opens today. Upcoming openings include Horse Thief, DTLA Cheese and The Oyster Gourmet.
